Tire Union Asks 25-Cent Raise

Accept Four-Day Week

1,200 Members Vote Action

Union workers at the Mansfield Tire plant voted this morning to accept a four-day week in preference to a lay-off and revealed they will ask a 25-cent hourly pay boost.

Approximately 1,200 members of Local 17, United Rubber Workers, voted the four-day week plan at a mass meeting in John Simpson auditorium.

Under the plan, employes will work a short week for nine weeks, effective immediately. The plan calls for a four-day week one week and then a five-day week, alternately.

The union chose that plan rather than accept a lay-off of 200 workers during a season of slack production.

Meanwhile, it was revealed at the meeting that a flat 25-cent boost for all workers will be sought in the new contract. The present contract expires May 1.

A letter from Desmond Walker, president of the union, was sent to F. A. Berkey, personnel director of the company, Feb. 28 saying the union wished to open negotiations for a revision of the present contract which expires May 1. The letter was sent 60 days before expiration of the present contract in compliance with the Taft-Hartley law.

In adition to the general revision of the present contract, the local asks for consideration of the following points:

A general wage increase of 25 cents an hour for all employes of the company.

A pension plan providing at least $100 a month, exclusive of Social Security.

An appropriate health and welfare program relating to life, sickness, and accident insurance and hospitalization.

An additional increase of 10 cents an hour over and above the 25 cents an hour outlined above to be instituted to correct the differential in average hourly earnings between the Mansfield plant and the average hourly earnings in the Akron district.

Walker explained the present average hourly rate in the Mansfield plant is $1.62 an hour while the average hourly rate in the Akron district is $1.72 an hour.

In discussion prior to taking a vote on the issue of a lay-off or working alternate four-day weeks, Walker said that tire production is now 8,200 per day. He added that if the company laid off 200 men the production would be cut by 32,000 during the next two months.

During the meeting a wire recording of a message from a company official was played. The official said the shortened working period might not last for the entire nine weeks.

Dr. A. L. Lewis, international educational director of the union, spoke at the meeting.

Hold Man In Attack

Police indicated the charges would be filed today against a 22-year-old Mansfield man for alleged criminal assault on a 15-year-old girl in his automobile early this morning.

Police received a call at 3:10 a. m. and made a preliminary investigation. They said the girl who lives at Bellville, reported the man drove her to the north end of the city garage on North Main street, and attacked her.

She was taken to General hospital where she was treated and released.

Police said the girl's parents would file charges against the youth later today.

Bulgarian 'Spy' Trial Completed

Verdict Expected Monday or Tuesday

SOFIA, BULGARIA — (AP) — Bulgaria's trial of 15 Protestant pastors for espionage and treason ended today after all the defendants made abject pleas for mercy and a new chance to work for the communist-controlled government.

Verdicts are expected Monday or Tuesday. The prosecution asked the death penalty for four principal defendants; long prison terms—up to life—For The 11 Others.

The main targets of both the prosecutors and defense attorneys were American capitalism and American church missions, which got the blame for the position in which the defendants find themselves.

The main defense speeches today were in behalf of the Rev. Georgi Chernev, 46, Pentecost pastor, and the Rev. Nikola Naumov, 49, a Baptist, two of the leading defendants.

Their attorneys described them as "poor ordinary people" who came into the financial grip of American missions which supplied three-fourths of the Bulgarian Protestant church budget.

Meanwhile, in Budapest, thirteen persons charged with black market money dealings in connection with the Josef Cardinal Mindszenty case were sentenced today to one to eight year prison terms.

Three of the 13 were Roman Catholic priests. One of these was Msgr. Imre Boka, who served the Cardinal as treasurer. He was sentenced to four years in prison and loss of political rights for another five years.

Letter Links City To Romeo

Mansfield Woman Writes to Killer

The search for intended victims of Raymond Fernandez, accused "lonely hearts" killer of three women, has unveiled a Mansfield woman, according to a Detroit newspaper.

The paper, quoting women who have written to the mail order Romeo, listed a Nella Stone of this city.

Sheriff Hugh M. Blacklock, of Grand Rapids, Mich., confirmed the fact that a Nella Stone of Mansfield had written to the accused slayer, but denied the newspaper's assertion that she might have been marked as his next victim.

"There is no basis for this statement," he told the News-Journal today.

He added that the letter from the Mansfield woman had been received after Fernandez had been jailed in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Delphine Downing, 29, and her 20-month-old daughter, Rainell, near Grand Rapids.

"I don't remember the address on the letter," he said, "and all the mail received by him after his arrest has been put under lock and key. It is a part of the official records of this case and cannot be opened until after the hearing Tuesday."

The hearing will be held to determine whether Fernandez and his alleged accomplice and paramour, Mrs. Martha Beck, are to be extradited to New York. Authorities of that state want to try them for the slaying of Mrs. Janet Fay, 50, at Valley Stream, New York.

The accused couple are waging a fight to escape extradition since New York laws specify capital punishment. The stiffest sentence which can be meted out in Michigan is a life term.

Mansfield Police Chief Jesse Schwab said today he had not been contacted by Michigan authorities concerning Nella Stone.

Hearing Set In Slaying

ATHENS — (UP) — Two youths indicted in the hammer-slaying of Miss Eleanor Gifford, 52-year-old Episcopal church worker, will be arraigned Tuesday, Judge Roy D. Williams indicated today.

A hearing was scheduled Monday by the common pleas judge to dispose of motions to transfer the charge against one of the youths, Grover E. Rawlins, to juvenile court.

Rawlins' birth record showed he became 18 years of age on Jan. 11, eight days after the burglary-slaying.

Three persons were indicted in the murder. They were Rawlins Harry Dodds jr., a former Mansfield reformatory inmate both of New Straitsville, and a man "known to this (grand) jury as Jimmy Stewart." Stewart is still being hunted on the charge.

Dodds allegedly has confessed that he beat Miss Gifford to death when she surprised the three in her home during a burglary attempt.

Filibuster Gains Force

Dems Declare Victory Assured

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Southern Democrats—aided by some Republicans—had the administration on the run today in its effort to force speedy Senate action on a filibuster-crippling rules change.

Senator Russell (D., Ga.) predicted certain Dixie victory in a battle which may—or may not—come up next week over an effort to cut short talk by a debate-limiting cloture petition.

Russell told reporters the Southern opponents of President Truman's civil rights program can count on 58 votes to reverse a possible ruling by Vice President Barkley that a gag can be applied to talk about a Senate motion.

The motion involved was offered Monday by Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) to bring up the rules change. That change would make it posible for two-thirds of the Senate to halt the kind of filibuster that's going on now.

As evidence that Russell might not be wrong, Senate leaders moved to rally crumbling Democratic support behind a move that may mean life or death to President Truman's civil rights program.

Boy Held To Grand Jurors

Leaves Hospital After Shooting

Thomas H. Strickland, 18, of 549 Johns avenue, who was shot and wounded when attempting to flee from police Feb. 19, waived preliminary hearing in municipal court today and was bound to the grand jury.

Municipal court officials said Strickland would post the $1500 bond and be released later today. He was charged with the possession of burglary tools.

Strickland was wounded in the side when he fled police who found him and a companion tampering with a car on North Walnut street. The shooting occurred at the rear of the Public library.

He was admitted to General hospital after the shooting. He was released from the hospital yesterday.

PAL IN OSR

The other youth involved in the case, Willie Ray Chaffin, 17, of 508 Johns avenue, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the Ohio State reformatory by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer. Both youths had recently concluded a year's probation from juvenile court.

Chaffin confessed to a charge of possession of burglary tools.

In waiving the preliminary hearing, a plea of not guilty was entered for Strickland by Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler.

The youths were chased by Officers Charles H. Condon and Marion L. Hardesty after the officers reportedly saw them tampering with a car owned by Eugene Storck, 580 Russell road.

Both officers fired at the same time. One shot struck Strickland in the side and the other went through a window in the library.

Move Follows Soviet Failure In Norway Pact

(Compiled From Wire Services)

Sharply on the heels of Russia's stumbling failure to bring Norway into the Soviet orbit, V. M. Molotov was fired last night as Russian foreign minister. His job went to acid-tongued Andrei Y. Vishinsky, veto-expert of the United Nations.

This major change in Russia's high command was disclosed to a startled world in a brief dispatch over the Moscow radio. The announcement said, too, that the minister of foreign trade for the last 23 years—A. I. Mikoyan—also had been replaced by his deputy, M. A. Menskikov.

Vishinsky, the successor to the veteran Molotov, has been regarded as more bitter to the west in his speech than Molotov. But he could scarcely be more unyielding than Molotov. Mikoyan was considered by many to be friendly to western nations.

High diplomatic sources in world capitals were reluctant to discuss what the change meant. They wanted time to study, to see what happened next.

In general observers saw these possibilities:

1. Molotov, 58, long regarded as the No. 2 man in Russia and most likely successor to Prime Minister Stalin, is being relieved of some of his duties to give him more time to prepare for taking over Stalin's job. Stalin will be 70 next December. His health has been reported poor. The Soviet announcement made no reference to Molotov's losing his other jobs. He also is a deputy minister.

2. Molotov, in spite of his long years of service to the communist cause, has been sacked by Stalin for reasons unknown, perhaps because of the Soviet post-war failure to stifle the Marshall plan and the projected North Atlantic alliance, and to push the west out of Berlin by blockade. It could mean "palace intrigue" as the result of a fundamental split in Russia's ruling polituboro. President Truman has reported such a split.

Molotov

3. In line with such reasoning, the sudden shift may herald a drastic change in Russian foreign policy, such as in 1939, when Molotov succeeded Maxim Litvinoff as foreign commissar (later changed to foreign minister). Less than three months after he took over, Molotov signed a 10-year non-aggression pact with Hitler, paving the way for the Nazi attack on Poland and the war.

Vishinsky

In London, authoritative British sources said that Premier Stalin probably is tightening his grip on Soviet foreign affairs with Molotov as his close advisor.

They said they believed the "release" of Molotov—Russia's No. two man—from his duties as foreign minister and his replacement by Andrei Vishinsky does not mean any immediate change in Soviet foreign policy.

As the British see it, Molotov will continue as Stalin's right hand man and foreign affairs advisor at a time when the cold war has reached a delicate stage. He will assist in guiding the nation on all matters pertaining to foreign policy.

Vishinsky, the former "purge" trial prosecutor and master of anti-western invective, will serve as a mouthpiece through which Stalin and Molotov will reach the ears of the rest of the world whenever the need arises.

The Russian change in leadership came against this world backdrop:

The west took a major step forward in a military alliance as Norway and Denmark, strategic Scandinavian countries, linked themselves more firmly with powers writing the North Atlantic pact — an agreement bitterly opposed by Russia as an aggressive instrument aimed at her.

Another major current in the east-west division was a series of related statements by communist leaders in various nations outside the iron curtain that their followers would side with Russian in any war.

Two Seized; Had Secret U. S. Papers

Russian, American Trapped By FBI

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A girl employe of the Justice department and a Russian United Nations official are being held in New York after a spectacular arrest in which stolen secret government documents were found in the girl's purse.

The two were seized by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in New York last night. Attorney General Clark said the material found in the girl's purse consisted of typewritten summaries of confidential justice department documents involving national security.

The government identified the girl as Miss Judith Coplon, 27, an employe of the Justice department's criminal division in Washington.

Clark said the Russian is Valentine A. Gubitchev, 32, a member of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations in New York.

Miss Coplon and Gubitchev were arrested after the girl was trailed from Washington by the FBI and after she carried out a rendezvous with the Russian in midtown Manhattan.

When the agents closed in, the department said they found a package containing typewritten summaries of information taken from confidential documents involving national security.

Attorney General Clark said an intensive investigation by the FBI disclosed what apparently was a series of meetings between Miss Coplon and Gubitchev, described by the department as the third secretary of the Russian secretariat of the U.N.

Vice Probe Gains Speed

ALLIANCE — (UP) — A grand jury investigation of alleged vice conditions here was proposed today.

The local ministerial association said it would support an investigation if a representative group of Alliance citizens would petition for a grand jury probe.

Mayor Robert D. Althouse, meanwhile, announced that bingo was banned by any group unless it was proven that the profits did not go to individuals.

The police department came in for an attack in address last night by Dr. William M. Morgan, president of the city council and chemistry professor at Mt. Union college.

Morgan said the police department should be put under the spotlight of an investigation "to find out why it has been no more active in crime and vice suppression than it has been."

Horses Bolt, Young Girl Fatally Hurt

CINCINNATI — (INS) — A five-year-old Cincinnati girl was dead today after suffering a crushed skull in an accident on the Boone county, Ky., farm of her grandfather.

Sallie Belle Bond was killed when a team of horses bolted into a gravel pit dragging a farm wagon and the little girl with them.

Robins, Doves, Buds!

City Gets Swell Sample of Spring

Robins caroled cheerily, doves cooed, and buds on maple trees looked as if they were swelling momentarily this morning as Mansfield got a pleasant foretaste of spring.

The weatherman promised that the clear skies and warm sunlight would continue through the day but clouds are expected to form tonight with increasing cloudiness all day Sunday. It will be colder, tomorrow, and in northeastern Ohio is scheduled to have snow flurries.

Most of the rest of the nation basked in mild temperatures today but a cold wave headed into parts of the north central states. Snow fell in North Dakota, where depths ranged from eight to 23 inches as the result of previous storms.

Where the cold did not strike, the rising temperatures brought new flood threats. The Missouri river went out of its banks in Missouri Valley, Ia., 140 familes were forced from their homes as the Boyer river levees broke in three places. Several families also were evacuated from lowland homes at Atchison, Kan., where the Missouri river still was partly ice-blocked.

New Labor Bill Bans Boycotts

Knocks Out Closed Shop

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The administration's labor bill, approved by the Senate Labor committee yesterday, would knock out these things by repealing the Taft-Hartley law:

1. The ban on closed shop agreements.

2. The requirement that the union officers sign non-communist affidavits before their unions can use facilities of the national labor relations board.

3. The ban on union political spending.

4. The requirement that unions bargain in good faith.

Besides repealing the Taft-Hartley law, the administration bill would:

1. Restore the old Wagner act. In brief, that act—enacted in 1935 and radically revised by the T-H measure in 1947—guaranteed the right of employes to organize and bargain collectively. It required employers to avoid certain "unfair labor practices," but listed none for unions.

2. Set up a new procedure for dealing with strikes or disputes which endanger the national health or safety. Under it, the President would ask that there be no strike or lockout for 30 days while an emergency board investigated and then recommended settlement terms.

3. Ban jurisdictional strikes and "unjustified" secondary boycotts by making them "unfair practices." The NLRB could enforce its rulings by getting injuctions—the only provision in the bill which permits injuctions. The board could get injunctions in such cases under the old Wagner act, too, but that law contained no "unfair practices" chargeable to unions.

BANS BOYCOTTS

In a jurisdictional strike or dispute, one union tries to beat out another union. The dispute is not primarily with the employer. Under a secondary boycott, a union having a dispute with one company tries to stop other firms from doing business with that company.

The administration bill would ban such boycotts when they are designed to force an employer to bargain with a particular union despite the fact that some other union is the official representative of the workers.

Boycotts in support of wage demands or any other economic demands are not banned by the bill, as they are under the T-H law.

4. State it is the "public policy" of the United States for labor contracts to contain clauses providing for arbitration of disputes over interpretation of contracts.

5. Return the federal conciliation service to the labor department. The T-H law made it an independent agency.

Twins Prove Valid Excuse For Dismissal

BOSTON—(INS—Judge Charles E. Wyzanski jr., opened federal court yesterday by announcing:

"The first business of this court is to congratulate the juror who has twins. He is excused from duty."

Juryman Matthew E. Cardoza of Winthrop leaped to his feet.

"What's that, your honor?"

The judge smiled and Cardoza, who was awaiting a jury assignment, grabbed his hat and headed for Winthrop community hospital where his wife had presented him with twin girls.

Guinea Pigs For Doohickeys

Gadgets Furnish Fun, Funds

By MARION SIMMS
(By Central Press)

LOS ANGELES, Cal. — When Don L. Davis opens his mail each morning, there are always surprises.

As chairman of the board of a monthly gadget club, one of Davis' jobs is the "discovery" of inventors. Their brain children come by messenger, air and express from all over America, from Newfoundland, Alaska, Bermuda, Switzerland, the West Indies, the Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines.

The inventions found feasible and intriguing are put through exacting processes by the Consumers' Testing league. Those surviving the tests are manufactured in quantity and sent to the thousands of members of the club.

Countless inventions are submitted to the club headquarters in Hollywood, or presented on its radio broadcast.

One San Diego man all his married life had watched his wife laboriously push her needle through heavy thicknesses of material while sewing. "One night that pushing and pulling was more than I could stand," he says, "I decided to do something about it."

After several weeks of experimenting, he came up with a gadget attachment for a thimble that enables a sewer easily and quickly to push a needle through even a half inch of tough rubber.

An average of 300 gadgets are submitted to Davis each month. Among them are such items as a knife holder from Sweden that sharpens a knife each time it is inserted or withdrawn from its holder and a tricky key selector that slips out the key you want, then snaps back into position after use. Then there is an aluminum frying pan with squared sides, a nylon bicycle tire, a gadget that applies lipstick perfectly in 25 seconds, a doorstop that cannot be misplaced, fitting snugly into its own container when not in use.

There is a drill so simple and easy to hold that a child can use it, a safety plug for electric extension cords that cannot be pulled from its socket by a child or pet, a legless bridge table with four attached arm chairs that support it and an all-purpose gadget that pulls tacks, cuts glass, sharpens knives and removes caps from bottles.

The list is inexhaustible, for the inventive mind apparently never stops working. Once a new gadget is perfected, the inventor contacts the gadget club, as a short cut to large and steady sales. Later, these products go on sale in shops and stores around the country.

After four years of preparation, the club started operating in November, 1946. It is the brainchild of a young Los Angeles advertising woman, Mary Lou Moffitt, formerly of Newton, Ia. She persuaded 23 California manufacturers to back her idea.

"The gadget club is actually a national sampling organization that channels new products direct from manufacturers to quality consumers prior to public sale," explains Davis.

To club members in America and in some foreign countries, it means the thrill of receiving a surprise package each month—something entirely new for the household or for personal use that cannot be bought.

An Oregon man walked into the club one morning with a long, wrapped object that turned out to be an unusual coaster skate for anyone with a pair of roller skates.

months, the manufacturers gave up, and appealed to the gadget people to see what they thought of the idea.

The club thought it an item of great possibilities, and accepted

GADGETS, GADGETS! Don L. Davis is surrounded by 'em.

This coaster has a bicycle seat and a pair of handle bars, and the skater simply sits down while coasting down a hill.

"Got the idea when I was a boy in Portland," said the inventor, who originally made a crude coaster to glide down the steep hills of his home town.

A timekeeper in a factory used to watch his girl friend in the plant's cafeteria trying to estimate the cutting of pies equally. it. When the club members received it as one of their monthly gifts, letters began to pour into club headquarters.

Of the inventors, a survey shows that inventions come chiefly from above the Mason-Dixon line. New England, especially, produces a bumper crop of inventors—the old Yankee ingenuity showing itself in new ideas to make living easier and more enjoyable.

To make her work easier, he finally came up with a pie-divider. It's a pie plate that slips into a container so marked that up to seven exact portions of pie can be cut.

An interesting sideline of the fickle nature of the buying public is shown in one item. A container for holding a toothpaste tube, the gadget had first appeared on counters of Los Angeles drug stores.

Concert Set for April 28

By MARILYN HONSE

The spring concert by the John Simpson band and orchestra has been scheduled for April 28 in the auditorium.

The band has added five new members. They are Martha Ferry, Marilyn Painter, Bill Miller, Rolly Bertka and Jeannette Flockenzie.

Several students have started taking baton lessons. Members of the baton class are required to take band or orchestra training first.

Seventh grade students are registering for their next year's courses. In a preview of registration by Principal H. J. Dotson a good school record was stressed as it is often an important reference.

School was closed at 2 p. m. Thursday so that the faculty and students could attend the funeral of an eighth grade math teacher, Miss Nellie McIlvaine, who died Feb. 28.

PLAY WAS HIT

"Your Manners Are Showing" proved to be one of the outstanding dramatic class productions of the year, under the direction of Mrs. Louise Lynch. This play, written and produced by the dramatics classes, was presented before an enthusiastic student audience Wednesday. Everyday courtesy was the theme of the play.

Ninth grade boys' and girls' glee clubs will join to present an assembly of song and dances in costume on April 8. The scenery will be made by the ninth grade boys. A program will be given the same evening for the public with an admission charge. The program is under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr and Miss Fannie Lou Eiler.

There will be no more dances until after Easter vacation, because of Lent.

A new pupil is Jay W. Taylor from Chicago.

According to the Safety Patrol, some Simpson students who walk on people's lawns, will soon be initiated into the "Cow Path club."

Mrs. Jean Larson is substituting for Mrs. Nellie Gates, who is absent due to the death of her father.

Fourteen new members have been added to the Junior Safety Patrol. They are: Edward Fry, Philip Michael, Bill James Miller, Ray Tormaschye, Terry McMullen, James Brock, Harold Herr, Clayton Schraff, William McDonald, Albert Bergraft, James Thoms, Tomas Ambrose and Harold Aston.

Public Housing Poses Segregation Problem

There have been dangerously superficial comments during the past few days, some of them made by sincere friends of public housing legislation, which need to be examined by thoughtful Americans. The statements have been to the effect that forbidding racial or other segregation in housing built from public tax funds would cause defeat of the legislation and would be otherwise disastrous.

Such statements were to be expected from southern senators like Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, even though Senator Ellender joined with Senators Robert F. Wagner of New York and Robert A. Taft of Ohio in sponsoring a housing bill in the 80th Congress. They are somewhat more startling from the lips of a more intelligent and liberal southern senator like John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

Such outbursts are not at all unexpected from organizations like the Ku Klux Klan and some real estate associations which are opposed to public housing anyway.

But it is most inexplicable to see the alarm among many others who have for years worked faithfully and assiduously for public housing and slum clearance. One can easily understand their eagerness to get such legislation passed by the 81st Congress. But it is somewhat disheartening to see some of them willing to compromise on this basic issue at the expense of that portion of the American population, fourteen million Negroes, which is in direst need of housing because of age-old discrimination in the form of restrictive covenants, city ordinances and state laws, the machinations of real estate agents and mortgage companies, and in less subtle ways, the attacks by mobs upon Negroes who sought to escape the ghetto.

Let us examine the facts. In the first place, those who are willing and even eager to throw the Negro once again to the housing wolves demonstrate a distressing lack of faith in the American people. Even though they have been the victims of unrelenting and vicious propaganda with respect to the effect of Negro occupancy on housing values there are many more Americans opposed to housing and other segregation than the faint-hearted appear to believe exist.

It is these more enlightened Americans who in turn have influence with northern senators and congressmen who can be relied upon to support non-segregated housing. More and more of them are awakening to the fact that the Negro taxpayer is also required by his government to pay an equal share of the funds with which this housing will be erected. They would oppose any American citizen in turn being denied equality.

NOT A THEORY

The second fact which, is ignored in this issue is that Negroes and whites live in the same neighborhoods, often next door to each other, in more cities and towns in the United States than are herded into racial ghettos. As a matter of fact, there is more of the ghetto pattern in many northern cities than in some southern ones. Thus non-segregation is not a theory but an actuality although public attention more often is focused on a segregated Harlem than on non-segregated areas in other parts of New York City.

A somewhat analogous situation existed only a few years ago in the matter of professional and graduate education for Negroes in southern states. Less than a decade ago it is doubtful that there were more than a handful of Americans who believed they would live to see the day when racial segregation could be abolished in the South.

But because there were those of courage who refused to compromise and, even more important, had faith in the inherent decency of Americans, when the facts were presented, there are Negro students today in the universities of Arkansas, Oklahoma, West Virginia and Delaware.

The question, therefore, reduces itself to one of whether Americans are going to support the principles of democratic housing or a slightly refurbished ghetto for minorities. In the matter of city ordinances, state laws and restrictive covenants to enforce segregation, the United States Supreme Court has unequivocally ruled against these discriminatory practices. In the light of these precedents, there might be an interesting legal question concerning the right of Congress to appropriate public money for housing or any other benefits to which all Americans irrespective of race, creed, color or national origin do not have equal access.

The ink of the United States' signature along with those of forty-seven other nations to an international Declaration of Human Rights has hardly dried. Refusal by the Congress to practice here in the United States the principles of equality in that document would again expose it to charges of hypocrisy and dishonor.

Having already given critics and enemies of America a fabulous amount of material as the basis for anti-American propaganda, it just isn't common sense at this critical period of world history for the United States again to write inequality into legislation.

Absolute Power Alien to U. S. Creed

Proposed Rules Change Hits Minority

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Although the question before the Senate is whether to amend the rules, the issue is not one of parliamentary procedure. It is whether there shall be a profound and far-reaching constitutional change in the character of the American government. The proposed amendment to Rule XXII would enable two thirds of the Senate to close the debate and force any measure, motion, or other matter to a vote. If the amendment is carried, the existing power of a minority of the states to stop legislation will have been abolished.

In the American system of government the right of "democratic decision" has never been identified with majority rule as such. The genius of the American system, unique I believe among the democracies of the world, is that it limits all power—including the power of the majority. Absolute power, whether in a king, a president, a legislative majority, a popular majority, is alien to the American idea of "democratic decision."

The American idea of a democratic decision has always been that important minorities must not be coerced. When there is strong opposition, it is neither wise nor practical to force a decision. It is necessary and it is better to postpone the decision—to respect the opposition and then to accept the burden of trying to persuade it.

For a decision which has to be enforced against the determined opposition of large communities and regions of the country will, as Americans have long realized, almost never produce the results it is supposed to produce. The opposition and the resistance, having been overridden, will not disappear. They will merely find some other way of avoiding, evading, obstructing or nullifying the decision.

This is the issue in the Senate. It is not whether there shall be unlimited debates. The right of unlimited debates is merely a device, rather an awkward and tiresome device, to prevent large and determined communities from being coerced.

The issue is whether the fundamental principle of American democratic decision—that strong minorities must be persuaded and not coerced—shall be altered radically, not by constitutional amendment but by a subtle change in the rules of the Senate.

The issue has been raised in connection with the Civil Rights legislation. The question is whether the vindication of these civil rights requires the sacrifice of the American limitation on majority rule. The question is a painful one. But I believe the answer has to be that the rights of Negroes will in the end be made more secure, even if they are vindicated more slowly, if the cardinal principle—that minorities shall not be coerced by majorities—is conserved.

For if that principle is abandoned, then the great limitations on the absolutism and the tyranny of transient majorities will be gone, and the path will be much more open than it now is to the demagogic dictator who having aroused a mob, destroys the liberties of the people.

Germans Find Life Easier; 'No Aid From Marshall Plan'

DUSSELDORF, GERMANY — (UP) — Life is better in Germany's Ruhr valley than at any time since the collapse of Adolf Hitler's Germany.

But neither Bruno Schulz nor Fritz Kannen gives the Marshall plan any credit for it. Both typical Ruhr valley workers, they don't even know what the plan is all about.

They attribute better times solely to the currency reform instituted by the American and British military government in June 1948.

Schulz, 62, father of two grown children, works for western Germany's biggest industry —government. He earns 90 marks a week ($27) as a clerk in the archives of the North Rhine-Westphalia state government.

There are more than 1,000,000 persons employed in the government offices of western Germany and the wage levels and working conditions generally are similar to those in other industries.

His family comprises his wife, Christina, 48, and their children, Otto, 23, and Helena, 20. The four now get 1,850 calories a day each, compared with 1,350 a year ago.

Schulz pays $27 a month for his six-room apartment. One room is occupied by a girl refugee from eastern Germany. They need more furniture, but prices are prohibitive.

For entertainment, the Schulzes go to a theater once or twice a month to see the standard works of Goethe, Schiller and other German writers. Both the children play tennis and watch other sports.

"The Marshall plan has brought hope to Germany, but I doubt that it has given any tangible benefit to any German," he said.

Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 6

Sunday's astrological forecast is for a very pleasant and gratifying state of affairs in all charitable, cultural and social affairs in which there might be some advancement, favor or promotion, with honors and festivities in celebration. Nevertheless it may be to the best interest to be ready for some sort of block, delay, postponement, to take the edge off biting disappointment. Care for the health is essential.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to make efforts to secure attention from those in high position, with tokens of esteem, preference in public, professional and private life. Finances and position are in line, despite opposition, delays or postponements, which might be due to a low physical status or to a slow disposition in seeking preferment and merited rewards. However, honors and favors may be thrust upon the delinquents.

A child born on this day, while having talents, aspirations and appreciation of distinction and honors in life, yet may be slow in pushing for such pleasant goals. Its vitality may be low.

For Monday, March 7

Monday's horoscope holds augury of a most intriguing and thrilling state of affairs, which while dramatic and fanciful, may develop a profound and far-reaching opportunity. This is true in realistic and practical workaday fields of ambition and aspiration, since the emotions, feelings and inner drives are stimulated by intuitions or subtlety. Dreams come true under such aspects. Yet there is need to safeguard all possessions, business deals and the finer things of life. Move with consideration in most alluring moments.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of curious, singular, out-of-the-ordinary events. These may inspire unusual creative performance, yet there is real need for hewing to workaday tactics and understandings lest there be loss, or entanglements with possessions, agreements or in romantic relations. Shun glamor and allure for realism and reason.

A child born on this day, while possessing strong ideals and impulses, prone to be carried away by glamor and sensationalism, should cultivate a logic and reasonable quality for sound returns and joys.

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1949

One Eastern newspaper reader suggests that "the best thing to do is to ignore Stalin"—which is a nice trick, if you can do it.

Senate to Air Labor Bill Ideas

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S promise to organized labor to repeal the Taft-Hartley act got over its first hurdle when the Senate labor committee voted on straight party lines yesterday to refer the measure to the floor of the upper chamber.

Senator Taft, opposing the action, promptly charged "high-handedness." And it does seem odd that the committee would not even consider the Republican-offered amendments.

Of course, the GOP strategy was to delay action and the Democrats wanted speed. However, the bill has now been catapulted into the midst of the filibuster on filibusters. Mr. Truman's legislative lieutenants thus may risk a severe test with the southern Democrats on the gagging of debate before they get the labor measure to the Senate floor.

In any case, it appears that the Truman bill is due for a thorough verbal going-over and many possible alterations before it goes to the House.

Installment Buying To Be Easier

PRESSURE for relaxation of government restriction on installment buying has resulted in extension of time allowed for payment of the balance of purchase price.

Instead of the 18 months limit previously prescribed, 21 months will be allowed—starting next Monday—for handling deferred payments on automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, radios, television sets, furniture and other household appliances valued above $50.

Automobile purchasers will still be required to pay one-third down, with 21 months in which to pay balance, but the down payment minimum on other controlled merchandise will be reduced from 20 per cent to 15 per cent, which is expected to stimulate sale of items that have been lagging somewhat during the past several months.

While easing of installment-buying restrictions has advantages it also has recognized dangers at a time when prices are at an inflationary level, and good judgment will be required by both merchandisers and patrons in assuring that obligations assumed in connection with installment purchases leave sufficient surplus of income to meet other living costs.

Alliance Stirred By Disclosures

POSSIBLY because Alliance is a considerably smaller city than Mansfield, disclosure of wide-open gambling operations in that city, with association of bootlegging, racketeering and vice, is causing quite a stir.

Now that his attention has been called to it by civic groups, including the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Alliance mayor has announced adoption of a law enforcement policy which includes a directive to the chief of police to the effect that "any man found shirking his duty in carrying out orders will be discharged immediately."

The Stark county prosecuting attorney is also quoted as stating that he is watching the Alliance investigation "very carefully."

As a larger city, it may be that Mansfield will have to become accustomed to conditions which residents of Alliance regard as intolerable, but recent trend toward more crimes of violence here is likely to impress at least a few residents of this community that efforts toward law enforcement are desirable, and that official laxity should not be accepted without protest.

And, by the way, it was just eight months ago today that a bomb was exploded in the rear of a South Park street cafe, resulting in injury to two patrolmen and two city firemen. The News-Journal offer of $250 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the bomb-planter still stands.

'Pyramid Club' Lures Suckers

SUFFICIENT mention of the "Pyramid club" racket has already been made in The News-Journal to leave little likelihood of anyone in Mansfield or vicinity being gypped by this type of swindle, patterned after the old chain letter scheme.

Columbus is the most recent city to reveal big-time operations of the Pyramid club craze, with reports indicating a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars by "easy marks" who fell for the glittering offer of $2,000 return on a one dollar "investment."

Meetings and telephone solicitation have been substituted for use of the mail in the Pyramid club technique, so federal action is not possible, leaving local authorities to cope with the problem of putting a stop to the racket.

Beauty Treatment Aids Recovery

WHEN a person has been sick in bed for a while, the first glimpse of his face in a mirror is more likely to depress the spirits than to promote convalescence. This is just as true for men as for women, but it is considerably easier to patch up a man's morale with a shave and haircut than to achieve equivalent effect with a woman's face and hair. She is accustomed to the more complex procedures of the beauty shop.

Thus it is not surprising that physicians are beginning to take considerable interest in the development of portable beauty shop equipment which can be taken to a patient's bedside, and in the special training of operators to care for the beauty problems of the sick.

Prayers In the Senate

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — On Monday, in his prayer opening the daily session of the Senate, the chaplain, Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, said among other things:

"The circumstances of our times are dismaying and the resources of our souls inadequate unless Thou replenish them. Give us intelligent perspective, the courage to follow the gleam of human brotherhood, a vision of Thy kingdom on earth and faith to push out its frontiers of good will."

Later that afternoon southern senators began their filibuster against the proposed changes in rules that would permit two-thirds of the Senate to break filibusters.

The reason for the southern filibuster as everybody knows is to block again, as before, civil rights measures.

President Truman and lots of other people think there is "a gleam of brotherhood" to be followed here in respect to civil rights, so that our nation may push out, even into the South, "its frontiers of good will."

Leading off in the filibuster was the distinguished senator from Georgia, Walter F. George, who said in the course of his speech:

"Mr. President, I think I know the drift that has been going on in this country for many years. It is a definite, a certain, a decided and almost irresistible drift toward a larger and larger concentration of power in the federal government. Now the desire is to give the federal Congress the right to regulate the suffrage of the states."

Georgia Is Offender.

IF WE take a look at the senator's own state we may find some explanation for this "drift," and some reason for giving Congress the right to do something about a free ballot in Georgia.

Under the spur of Governor Herman Talmadge's ruthless machine, the state legislature has just enacted a series of laws to disfranchise hundreds of thousands of citizens of Georgia by requirement for complete registration; institution of a spurious "literacy test" which will be used merely as a trick device to prevent negros from qualifying to vote.

Georgia boldly threw off such restrictions a few years ago under the leadership of former Governor Ellis Arnall. Herman Talmadge is undoing all that good work which was so creditable to the state.

Georgia's people are citizens of the United States. But just because they happen to live there, within certain boundaries drawn on a map, they cannot enjoy the rights guaranteed to citizens of the United States by the constitution. It is so, too, in other southern states.

On Tuesday, the Rev. Harris said in his prayer:

"Today we come for light enough to walk by. Save us from the futile repetition of old errors and the restitution of old evils. Let not ignorance nor mean partisanship nor selfish greed nor the temptations of privilege block the way to a new order in the world with hope of lasting peace, enlarging brotherhood and increasing opportunities for all Thy children."

The filibuster continued thereafter aimed at measures to enlarge brotherhood and increase opportunities for "all Thy children."

It probably will be difficult to get millions of farmers and workers in the South excited by eloquent addresses about "state rights," or to stir up in them any fear about a strong central government, until and unless the states, themselves, show some concern about protecting the simple rights of the ballot, decent wages, and decent living conditions. Or until they get, as the chaplain put it, "light enough to walk by."

Washington Calling

Barkley's In Tough Spot

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — Vice President Alben W. Barkley, the genial, kindly Kentuckian, finds himself with the floodlight of national interest full upon him. He stands at the point of decision between the Democratic party of the South and the Democratic party of the North.

The ruling that he makes as presiding officer of the Senate in this beginning phase of the fight over the President's civil rights program is certain to have a profound effect in party politics.

Ruling against the South, as he is almost certain to do, Barkley will alienate many of the closest friends that he had made in his 22 years in the Senate.

No one could have foreseen this unfamiliar role for the honest harmonizer who grew up in Paducah, Ky., on the periphery of the Deep South. No one at that dispirited Democratic convention in Philadelphia last summer could have anticipated this moment.

It was Barkley's Senate colleagues—many from the South—who pushed his nomination as vice-president. They argued that he had served the party well and faithfully and now he deserved the honor as capstone for his career. And though he would not be elected, so practically everyone believed, he would still be senior senator from Kentucky.

The Senate rules are like sticky flypaper. They trap the unwary and even Barkley with all his knowledge and experience finds himself in a tight spot.

What It's All About.

THE PROPOSAL is to change the rules of the Senate so that any filibuster can be blocked by a two-thirds vote. That is to say, unlimited debate could under any parliamentary situation be shut off when two-thirds of the senators present voted to end it.

There are several stages in the adoption of that proposal. It is in phase No. 1 that a ruling from Barkley will be called for. He will be asked to decide whether the Senate has the right to shut off debate—by a two-thirds vote—on a motion to call up the proposal itself.

If he rule no, then the southerners will filibuster indefinitely, the Senate will be stalemated, and the Truman program so delayed as to be seriously jeopardized. By ruling yes he has a chance of ending the whole business in a fairly short time so the Senate can move on to the foreign relief program, new labor legislation, the tax bill and the rest of the complicated measures that the administration desires.

You have to say "chance" because even after he has ruled, Barkley may find himself in trouble. Certain senators who would favor civil rights legislation may hesitate to go along with a chance in the rules that can have such far-reaching consequences. They sincerely believe that the right of unlimited debate is essential safeguard of liberty.

In ruling yes, Barkley will have to go against not one precedent but at least two in recent times. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, as president of the Senate, ruled last year that a motion to call up a bill was not subject to a two-thirds cloture vote.

Out of loyalty Republicans may feel compelled to support the Vandenberg precedent. At that time Barkley talked against Vandenberg's position.

In 1946, a Democratic senator, Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, was presiding officer. In a surprise move Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico called up a fair-employment practices bill which immediately froze the senate in a southern filibuster.

To end that freeze McKellar made a ruling that had many of the implications of Vandenberg's later decision. So Barkley will have to go against both a Democratic and Republican precedent.

As Cerf Tells It

All the way from Norway comes the story of a famous novelist who was invited to the preview of a new three-million-dollar motion picture. "I like it," he said at the conclusion of the showing. "Who wrote it"? "You did," said the producer. "It's based on your last book!" "I never would have known it," admitted the writer. "I think it has the makings of a fine novel. May I use it?" "I guess so," said the producer, "but you'll have to give us an option on the film rights."

Summary of Week's Happenings

Labor Ponders Fourth Round Tactics

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

IS THERE to be a fourth round of postwar wage increases for organized labor?

It is not a question that can be answered at the moment. The unions themselves are approaching it in a wary manner.

AFL economists, for instance, say an increase of five per cent is merited to bring wages up to increased price levels. But in almost the same breath they warn 7,500,000 AFL members against making any demands that might be inflationary.

"The present business situation is precarious," says the AFL monthly survey. "A slide off into recession could occur; unemployment could increase further. Much depends on the wisdom of union leaders, business executives and government officials."

The First Targets.

Henry Ford and Big Steel appear the major initial targets in the drive for a fourth round.

The whole question of whether there is to be a fourth round at all may be settled in the deliberations of these two giant corporations and the mammoth unions in their plants.

Walter Reuther of the CIO Auto Workers and Philip Murray, CIO president and head of the Steelworkers, will be the men to watch again this year.

Three times before, between them, they have succeeded in negotiating pay increases which spread out to most of the nation's industry. That was in 1946, 1947 and 1948.

Don't Forget Lewis.

Another figure also is in the picture: John L. Lewis, chieftain of the Mine Workers. His contract runs until June 30—although he can terminate it on 30 days notice before then if he wants to.

Close observers of Lewis strategy would not be surprised this year if he asks for nothing but a six-hour day and a 30-hour week without loss in pay. His $100 monthly pensions for minors, financed by a 20-cents-a-ton royalty on all coal dug, is a milestone other unions will strive to attain.

Negotiations between Reuther's auto workers and Ford are slated to begin May 15. Ford, although he probably regrets it, was quoted as saying a fourth round increase was due.

Steel Talks in June.

The Big Steel will begin early in June. U. S. Steel has a two-year contract with Murray's union but it can be opened for wages and welfare discussion this summer. Murray has been reticent about his plans but many union people think he'll ask for a wage hike, group insurance and pensions, possibly a guaranteed annual wage.

General Motors has a two-year contract, signed last year, with wages tied to the government cost of living index. GM workers took a two-cent hourly slash this month under that provision.

Two other big CIO unions are on the verge of negotiations for wage and welfare plants. They are the United Electrical Workers with General Electric and the Radio Corporation of America, and the United Rubber Workers with the rubber industry.

At Home

Subsidized Families.

Within a few years it is possible this country may pay you money each month for rearing children. Already such family allowance plans are operating in all the western European countries, the Soviet Union, Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

Speakers at a recent New York conference on population trends and the family, sponsored by the National Research Council, said the U. S. birth rate is slowing down.

By 1980, if present trends continue, we'll be a nation with many more older people and fewer children.

Filibuster In Action.

The Senate is embroiled in a great battle over the filibuster. It may jam legislative machinery almost indefinitely but in the opinion of the President and Administration leaders the issue is worth it. Mr. Truman ordered Senate leaders to meet it "head-on."

Fiery Dixie senators accepted the challenge and a full dozen of them vowed to talk until they drop in defense of the South's historic weapon — talking a measure to death.

The specific core of the dispute is a motion to consider a change in Senate rules to permit limiting debate on any subject. Administration leaders frankly admit the change is designed to make it easier to pass the President's civil rights program.

Intelligence Pays Off.

What happens to exceptionally bright children when they grow up? They do better than normally intelligent people, says a Stanford professor, in all categories except one—they have fewer children.

It is doubtful if "brighties" have large enough families to maintain their stock, says Dr. Lewis M. Terman in a report to the International Council for Exceptional Children on the careers of 1,450 gifted persons he selected as youngsters and traced to the age of 35.

Stanford's professor emeritus of psychology says the group had only 1,500 offspring by 1945. That's little more than one child per family.

Dave Boone Says:

JOE LOUIS has decided not to fight any more. No other decision of that kind has been made anywhere on earth, despite all the efforts of the United Nations. And Joe wasn't even on an agenda!

* * *

His kind of fighting was pretty honest. He never claimed merely to be taking somebody over for their own good in a fair election.

* * *

I don't think any news of the day could have touched that in general interest unless perhaps Congress had decided to stop fighting, too.

* * *

If there was ever a time in world history when filibustering seemed out of tune, it is today. Here's a whole world harassed and made groggy by countless problems requiring almost anything but long speeches for their solution, and representatives in our national legislature stage a talk marathon! They're grownups, too, hard as it is to believe.

It was the sixth successful revolution in 13 months.

Dr. Lopez is a dentist and veteran leader of the Colorado Party, the only legal one in Paraguay. He was minister of education in Gen. Rolon's cabinet.

Elections for a new president are scheduled for April 17.

Russia's Threats.

The variable line of Soviet diplomacy in the east-west cold war has switched again. What started out a month ago as a peace offensive has hardened into a series of thinly veiled threats, uttered in turn by Red leaders in lands outside the Russian satellite sphere.

In the past fortnight, Communist spokesmen in France, Italy, Germany and Britain have declared that an invading Red Army would be welcomed and assisted by their party organizations.

Washington and London agree that the statements, in timing and unanimity of tough but careful phrasing, add up to almost circumstantial evidence of inspired directives from the Kremlin.

Farmer's Diary

Lambs In Springtime

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE THIN high-pitched wail of a new-born lamb was the first thing I heard as I entered the farmer's barn. The sheep were sheltered in the basement below the barn bank. I descended a short flight of steps and looked over the railing into the beam-ceilinged space where about forty Corriedale ewes were quartered.

Bales of hay lined the one wall, with a feeding trough in front. The floor was deep-littered with sawdust, and shavings. A block of mineralized salt was beside a corner trough where water trickled through. The posts that upheld the heavy ceiling beams were smooth and shiny from years of contact with oily woolly animals. The odor of mutton-heads was unmistakable.

A sheep is supposed to be the dumbest of dumb animals. They have no minds of their own—all they know is to follow a leader. Lacking a ram, they will crowd after most any astute bellwether, that is opportunist enough to get a bell tied onto his neck.

These Corriedales, though, were an "outstanding bunch of wool producers". The farmer said he had sheared them twice a year—in April and October, and half of them had borne twins every year for the past three years.

The lambs, born on March, were ready for market in December. The wool of this breed, he declared is heavier and of better quality than that of any other.

"What," I wondered out loud, "is so appealing about a little lamb?"

"They're laughable," he said. "All legs at first, with a tail that ripples every time they swallow." He pointed to two that were bunting at their patient mothers' udder, until in desparation she turned her back on them, and ran between two other sheep. "Those two were the first of this year's crop," he said.

"She dropped 'em a week too soon and we like to've lost 'em. But I found 'em before they were too cold, and hustled into the house with 'em. My wife fed 'em first with a medicine dropper. Gave 'em whisky soup! When they limbered up, we stayed up half the night getting their mother to own them. Couldn't lose the first set of the year! They'll be all right now."

A young ewe with a tiny new lamb stopped and stamped her foot when she saw me watching. "She knows you're strange here," the farmer said. Leaving, I noticed that he spoke quietly to the foremost ewes that crowded toward him; when he entered the pen to put grain into the trough.

New lambs. Spring signs. Trusting little helpless creatures! I grinned, remembering my month-old granddaughter's first toy. A burly neighbor man brought it to the baby when she was five days old, a soft rubbery lambkin with pink ears and a silver bell that tinkles.

"She can chew it if she wansta," declared the young bachelor, grinning sheepishly.

"It'll wash—or even boil, if you needta. It's tougher than it looks! They had lions and bears and ducks—but I thought, for a girl, lambs are cuter!"

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WE WILL soon have an Atlantic Pact to replace the Atlantic Charter which was lost at sea when quite young.

* * *

A place has already been found for it in the state department archives right next to the 10 other pacts, none of which are remembered by anyone.

* * *

Incidentally the Hoover Commission confirmed a long time suspicion when it reported that the department is organized horizontally but should be organized vertically.

* * *

Many of its war-time compromises seemed to have been delivered from a horizontal position when the accent should have been on the vertical.

* * *

If Congress can change that and also put the postoffice on a paying basis Harry can only call it the almost-worst in history.

* * *

But right now Congress cannot be accused of inaction . . . It's very busy with a filibuster.

Life Was a Tragedy For Greedy Little Man Who Wanted the World

By GEORGE TUCKER
(For Hal Boyle)

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a greedy little man who wanted the whole world for himself.

He was a sickly little man, with tiny hands and feet, and a head too large for his body.

His feet were always cold. He would lie in hot water for hours, claiming the cold was locked in his bones.

Not for one moment did he consider himself effeminate, though he had wide hips and narrow shoulders, like a woman, and a complexion as fair as a girl's.

In fact, women adored him. A look from him and they were at his feet. He had seven mistresses.

..."I love nobody," he declared. "Friendship is only a word." .....

Yet he was a monster of jealousy. One day he left town on a short business trip, and next day he wrote his wife. "I want you on my heart. Quickly, fly, fly."

She was slow in joining him and he cried, "Have you a lover? Have you taken up with a stripling of nineteen?"

"What a queer fellow," she laughed.

"I no longer love you," he cried. "I hate you. You are hateful, stupid, inept."

He had a mania for being on the winning side. He could not bear to lose, even at games. When his friends played chess with him, they tried hard to lose. They even sent out for players who were less skilled than he. When they could not find them, it was necessary to lose the game foolishly, rather than defeat him.

One day a preacher's son tried to kill him. The plot miscarried, and the boy was dragged into his presence. They searched him and found a knife and the portrait of a pretty girl. The portrait fascinated him.

"You wanted to kill me?"

"Yes, I intended to kill you."

Whose portrait is this?

"The girl I love."

A pause.

"If I let you go . . . I suppose it would gladden the heart of this girl."

"Then I shall be able to kill you after all."

He looked at the young man sadly. The face in the portrait could have won so easily, with a little help. He nodded to his henchmen, and left the room.

His whole life was a preposterous tragedy. He had wanted to be a great man. But he couldn't tell the truth. His friends were so partisan and his enemies so prejudiced that nothing they said could be believed either.

The church excommunicated him. His tantrums were so great that he summoned people to the bath room, where he was bathing, and splashed them with hot water.

Every word I have said about this extraordinary little man is preserved in his letters and papers, and can be read by anybody.

So unusual a man deserved an unusual name. It would have been an irony for him to be called Smith, or Jones.

But he was spared that commonplace. His name was very unusual. It was Napoleon Bonaparte.

Six incumbent officials will be unopposed for re-election.

They are Mayor W. R. Morris, Director of Law G. W. Depler, Director of Finance Chester P. Monn, Councilman-at-large Ross Sipes, Councilmen James M. Herlihy, First ward; Ross Bringman, Third ward, and E. J. Schad, Fourth ward.

Measure Would Bar Drivers Under 16

The Ohio house of representatives today was considering a bill to bar children under 16 from driving cars.

The bill, introduced by Roy E. Harmony, of Sandusky, a Republican, has the backing of Frank Quinn, state motor vehicle registrar, and Richland county juvenile authorities.

Judge Stuart H. Cramer of the county juvenile court has advocated restrictions on juvenile drivers.

Restrictive licenses are issued to children 14 and 15 years old for certain farm and delivery operations.

The Harmony bill also would authorize the state to grant regular drivers' licenses for periods of three years with the licenses to expire on the holders' birthdays. The licenses now are good for only one year and all of them expire Sept. 30.

Quinn favored the three-year plan.

"We barely get the files set up when we have to change them," he said.

The senate highway committee is conducting hearings on a bill its authors said will "take the highway department out of politics."

WINTER CO-AUTHOR

The measure was offered by Senator Ralph A. Winter, who represents Richland county and the 27th-29th district, and C. I. Powell, a Republican, of Clarke county.

The bill provides a six-year term for the highway director. It also creates a nine-man two-party advisory council to aid him. They would be named by the governor for six years, subject to senate confirmation.

Powell asserted the highway director always is under political pressure.

"He's asked to repair a road in one section or build one in another for political reasons," Powell said.

"We've had six directors in the last 10 years. Regardless of ability, no man can outline and start a highway program, let alone finish it, in two years," he stated.

Winter said: "Too often political expediency shapes the department's work schedule, instead of the needs of the motoring public."

Predict Lengthy Delay

House, Senate All 'Tied Up'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Republicans claimed defiantly today that the Democratic labor bill which was jammed through the Senate Labor committee yesterday will emerge from Senate debate as a GOP measure.

The administration bill calling for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act probably won't come before either Senate or House within the next month. The Senate is tied up by a filibuster and several other measures have priority over the labor bill. The House is waiting for the Senate to act.

When it does, Senate Republicans said, there will be some changes made.

Senator Morse (R-Ore.) told reporters: "The Democrats simply haven't got the votes for this bill and they know it. It will emerge as a Republican bill now."

SEE GOP WINNING

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) agreed. "The votes are in the Senate to adopt a much better law than this bill," he said. "There are 54 now sitting in the Senate who voted to override the President's veto of the Taft-Hartley bill in 1947." (The Senate membership is 96).

Democrats weren't doing much talking. Yesterday, resorting to action instead of words, they used their 8-5 majority in the wrangling Senate Labor committee to vote approval of the bill—without changing a single word or allowing the Republicans to introduce any amendments.

The bill has the blessing of President Truman and labor unions.

Sponsored by Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) and Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich.), it would replace the Taft-Hartley act with a law closer to the original Wagner act of 1935.

Under it, most Taft-Hartley provisions would die, including the ban on closed shop contracts, the signing of non-communist oaths by labor leaders, and the 80-day "national emergency" injunctions to delay strikes in vital industries.

Indians Rate Top On Paper

By JOHN BARRINGTON

NEW YORK — (INS) — If pennants were won on paper, the Cleveland Indians would be home free today and the American league could spend the summer fishing.

In two all-important criteria, power and strength down the middle, the Indians stand out, even as they do in discussions of pitching.

Take the potential starting lineup—Jim Hegan, c; Mickey Vernon, 1b; Joe Gordon, 2b; Manager Lou Boudreau, ss; Ken Keltner, 3b; Dale Mitchell, lf; Larry Doby, cf; and Allie Clark or Hank Edwards, rf.

Every one of those men is a power hitter. All but Vernon are holdovers from the team that led the league in batting last year and hit 155 home runs, an average of one per game. Gordon had 32 homers, Keltner 31, Boudreau 18 and Doby 14.

Down the middle, Hegan rates as the league's best catcher, Gordon and Boudreau convinced the skeptics that they are the top keystone combination, and Doby needs concede an edge to nobody except Joe DiMaggio, and possibly his brother, Dom.

Boston can challenge the "down-the-middle" standard with Dom DiMag in center, and with Bobby Doerr and Vern Stephens functioning at second and short. But the aging Birdie Tebbetts is no Hegan behind the plate.

The Red Sox, despite sluggers like Ted Williams, the perrenial league swatting champion, Doerr and Stephens, were no better than third last year in club batting, total bases and home runs.

The Yankees, with Joe DiMaggio setting his $100,000 pace, were runners-up to the Indians in all major offensive departments. But the Yankees were bargain basement markdowns behind the plate and at second base last year.

Behind those three powerhouse clubs, the batting records tailed off sharply. None of the remaining clubs seem to have added appreciably to their batting strength.

The Browns expect to enjoy a full year of Dick Kokos and Hank Arft, who went rather flamboyantly mad at the plate after being promoted from Toledo in mid-season.

Detroit touts Outfielder Johnny Groth as the rookie of the year but is getting tired of expecting Dick Wakefield to live up to early expectations.

The weak-sticking Athletics of Connie Mack have added Taft Wright, the faded White Sox hitting star, and Coaker Triplett, veteran minor league slugger.

Chicago can count its "power" on two fingers—one for Pat Seerey, who fans as often as he connects, and the other for 40-year-old Luke Appling, who still hits but no longer for distance.

Shelby Cage Loop Ends Play With Three Encounters

SHELBY — The Shelby City basketball league ended its season last night with the playing of a postponed series of games which saw Gump's league champs, defeat the Bing's five 46 to 33 with Ed Vanderbilt scoring 14 points to take third position in the individual scoring race.

Leroy Dill, the league leader, did not play last night and as a result Dwight Tooker took over the honors for the season with 192 points. Dill was second with 190 points.

In other games, the Salesbook walloped the Legion, 58 to 34, with Jay Arnold scoring 20 for the Bookmakers. The Seamless Tube were defeated by the Shelby Merchants 41-34 after carrying the lead for most of the game.

Tonight will be All-Star night with selected players from the league teams opposing the Friendly House at 7:30 in the opener. The Gump team will tangle with the All-Star team No. 2.

Awards of trophies will be made between the halfs of the second game.

Findlay Five Knocks Out Lima South

By FRITZ HOWELL
(Ohio AP Sports Editor)

COLUMBUS—Findlay and Eaton are over the opening hurdles in their races to retain Ohio's Class A and Class B high school basketball championships.

The terrific Trojans ousted Lima South 45-31 last night in the sectional tourney at Findlay for their second win of the "lose and out" eliminations.

Eaton, the Class B king, had a 20-point third-period lead over Beavercreek, the Greene county champion, in the Xenia sectional and hung on to win 59-53.

WIN IN OVERTIME

Findlay's victory, coupled with Fostoria's 46-41 overtime conquest of Lima Central, set the stage for a final thriller at Findlay. Fostoria, one of the two teams to defeat Findlay in the regular season, meets the Trojans in the sectional payoff game. Findlay has a 17-2 record and Fostoria 14-6.

Gene Neff, Eaton's all-tourney star of 1948, piled in 23 points in the win over Beavertown, giving Eaton a 14-5 record for the year. All the losses were to Class A clubs.

Last year's regional entrants—16 in Class A and 16 in Class B—are having tough sledding in this year's frays.

OUT OF FIGHT

Out of the fight in Class A are Canton McKinley, Steubenville, Mansfield Madison, Hamilton Catholic and Miamisburg. Still in there scrapping from last year's "sweet 16" in the major loop are defending champion Findlay, Bowling Green, Toledo Central Catholic, Canton South, Stow, Cleveland Heights, Coshocton, Akron South, Portsmouth, Columbus Central and Cincinnati Walnut Hills.

Bowling Green (11-6) just made it last night. A free throw by Guard Barney Firsden with only a second to go gave the Bobcats a 44-43 win over Maumee after the score had been tied 13 times.

ALESSI GETS 17

The state's No. 1 scoring machine, Ken Alessi of Yorkville, ended his scholastic cage career last night as his team bowed 39-48 to Dillonvale in the Class B Scio sectional.

Alessi, pint-sized, was held to 17 points by a broken finger on his left hand and a "charley horse" in his leg. Yorkville had defeated Dillonvale 68-40 in the Jefferson county tourney finals a week ago, and in three starts against Dillonvale this season Alessi had scored 31, 55 and 40 points. For 33 games, Alessi scored 1168 points this season, an average of 35.4.

Wayne County Teams Battle In Title Game

ASHLAND — Finals of the Class B sectional tournament will be strictly a Wayne county affair tonight with Rittman set to go against Doylestown at 8 o'clock.

Ashland county's representatives bowed out last night as Loudonville fell before Rittman, 45-36, and Perrysville was eliminated by Doylestown, 50-40.

Doylestown has beaten Rittman twice before this season but must do something about center Ronnie Hardgrove if it wants to repeat. Hardgrove led Rittman last night with 30 points.

Ohio State Tops Big 9 Swim

LAFAYETTE, IND. — (AP) — Ohio State held a 10 point lead over Michigan's defending champions today, 41 to 31 going into the last five events of the Western Conference swimming and diving contests.

Iowa third with 26 points, still was in the running but its chances of ending the Ohio State-Michigan domination of recent years were badly battered last night.

Duane Draves and Dick Maine, favored in the 150-yard back stroke, finished third and fourth, back of Ohio State's Robert De Groot and Ralph Knight. Bill Smith, Ohio State's stubby Hawaiian, also damaged Iowa's prospects by beating defending champion Wally Ris in the 220-yard free style—a reverse on last year's result.

SETS NEW RECORD

Ris came back to anchor Iowa's 400-yard free-style relay team to a new conference record of 3:29.2. Smith, last man on the third-place Ohio State team, had anchored the Buckeye quartet that set the old record of 3:31.0 in 1947.

Purdue's Keith Carter, who swam with Ris and Smith on the American Olympic team, also came back from defeat to set a new Big Nine record. He lost his 50-yard free style title to Dick Weinberg of Michigan in a tough finish, then won the 200-yard breast stroke in 2:16.4. Bob Sohl of Michigan, who set the old record of 2:21.4 in 1947, finished fourth.

Indians Give Clubs Lesson In Free Shots

The Indians trailed 13-10 at the quarter but took charge in the second period to lead at half-time 32-23.

In other games last night Lancaster St. Mary's eliminated Danville, 43-38, Granville edged Caledonia, 43-42, Orange beat Watkins, 57-36, and Marysville bumped Liberty Union, 49-32.

PLAY EIGHT TODAY

Eight ball games today will reduce the tourney's original 36 clubs to eight for quarter-final play. Today's card includes: 1 p. m. Worthington vs. Pickaway; 2 p. m., Holy Family vs. Hebron; 3 p. m., Groveport vs. Ashley; 4 p. m., Edison vs. Plain City; 6 p. m., Newark St. Francis vs. Fredericktown; 7 p. m., London vs. Lancaster St. Mary"; 8 p. m., Mt. Tygers and Redmen Get District Spots

Mansfield Senior and Bucyrus high schools last night won district tournament berths by taking their semi-final games in the Mansfield Class A sectional basketball tourney.

Playing a deliberate brand of ball, Senior high took an early lead and held on to the margin to eliminate Ashland, 46 to 39. Bucyrus, the pre-tournament favorite, defeated Shelby, 59 to 48.

Mansfield and Bucyrus collide for the sectional championship tonight at 8 o'clock on the Senior high hardcourt. Winner of the game will advance to the Sandusky district meet and the runner-up is scheduled to take part in the Findlay joust. Both districts are on tap for next week.

In earlier tourney tilts, Bucyrus took the measure of Mansfield Madison, 36 to 29, and Senior high ran over Galion, 67 to 45.

Mansfield . . .

By FRED THARP

Although Mansfield controlled the game all of the way, Ashland was close enough to cause trouble until the final 45 seconds. Then Jimmy Anderson caged a bunny to give the Tygers a 44-to-38 lead. Phil Lersch of Ashland hit a free throw with 15 seconds left and Norb Shibinski concluded the Mansfield scoring with his third rebound connection of the night.

THIRD WIN OF YEAR

The victory marked the third time this season that the Tygers had taken the measure of their ancient rivals and the 76th meeting in the long feud was by far the most interesting. Senior high now has a bulge of 41 victories to 35 for the A's.

It was the second time in Vern Hoffman's 10 years at the helm of the Bengals that his club knocked off Ashland three times in a season. The previous instance happened back in 1941-42. Twice since then the teams met three times in a campaign but neither could turn the "hat trick."

Soph Ken McCally pumped in a one-hander to set the Tygers ahead at the outset but Phil Lersch quickly knotted the count. Then Anderson rapped in a foul and Shibinski followed with a rebound. Anderson came through again from the foul line and Paul Ferguson pitched in two gratis tosses to give Senior high a 8-to-2 advantage.

The Tygers led at the quarter, 9 to 4, but Ashland sliced the margin to 18-15 at the half. In the third quarter, Mansfield built up a 33-to-27 margin.

11-POINT MARGIN

On two occasions in the third quarter, the Tygers pulled 11 points in the van. Norm McVicker had teed off with a foul to cut the Tyger lead to 18-16 at the start of the second quarter. But Shibinski hit a pivot push shot and Anderson and Ferguson dribbled the length of the court to cage bunny shots and run the margin to 24-16.

Two minutes later Anderson swished the nets for two baskets in 15 seconds to increase the lead to 31-20. Ray Bates hit two free throws for Ashland and Shibinski rapped home a pivot connection before Ashland closed the period with five straight points.

Senior high kept its working margin throughout the final quarter.

The third quarter resulted in the finest shooting of the season by the Bengals as they ripped the mesh on seven of 10 shots. For the game, Mansfield made 16 of 49. The Tygers also had 14 of 25 free tosses while Ashland made only 11 of 23.

Bud Jones, a bear on the boards for the A's all night, fouled out at 2:50 of the fourth quarter. Ferguson committed his fifth personal at 7:55.

Anderson topped the Mansfield point parade with 14 and now has 297 for the season.

Bucyrus . . .

By RALPH POSTLEWAITE

The Bucyrus Redmen looked a little fine in their win over a spirited Shelby high quintet. Or perhaps the strain of a 15-game winning streak, carried into last night's game, is beginning to tell on Coach Al Pesek's boys.

Actually the game was not as close as the score might indicate. However, it was only for about two-thirds of the third quarter that the Redmen looked like the type of ball club that was seeded number one in the Mansfield sectional. During those first ten minutes of that quarter, Bucyrus notched 13 points while holding Shelby to one bucket and a gratis throw.

CAN'T CONTROL BOARDS

Bucyrus, for all their height advantage, failed miserably to control the backboards with any degree of regularity, and their customary fast break was in evidence only on two or three occasions. Bill Kibler led the scoring parade for Pesek's boys, with six baskets and seven fouls out of as many attempts, for a total of 19. Stan Cronenwett and Dick Utz showed the way for Charles William's Shelby club, with 13 to 12 points respectively.

Big 6-4 Paul Katternhenrich started the scoring with a rebound, but Stan Cronenwett tied it up immediately with a one hander. Twice more in that first quarter Cronenwett hit from outside with that one hand delivery, to keep Shelby in the ball game and at the quarter mark they led 11-10.

In the second quarter, with big Norm Smith and Katternhenrich pacing the offensive, the Redmen squeezed into a 26-25 halftime lead. The third quarter was all Bucyrus, ending with the Whippets trailing 41-33.

And in the last frame, with Harold Onie, Leo Fackler and Glenn Lybarger bowing out for Shelby, via the personal foul route, the game slowed to a toss-up between the Whippets and the Bucyrus reserves.

PASSING NOT SHARP

The Redmen's passing lacked it's usual sharp finesse, and their shooting was well below the fine average they have carried for the year. Of 75 floor attempts they were able to connect on only 18. But from the foul line, led by Kibler's fine shooting, they bracketed 23 out of 31 attempts.

Doby Sprains Ankle In Slide

TUCSON, ARIZ. — (AP) — Lary Doby, the Cleveland Indians' first casualty of the year, today nursed a sprained ankle that probably will keep him on the bench for several days.

The Negro outfielder was hurt yesterday while being tutored in the art of hook sliding by Tris Speaker, one of the Tribe's special coaches.

"It's all my fault," Doby said. "I know I wasn't supposed to practice sliding until next Monday, but I thought I was in pretty good condition."

Sliding pits have been specially constructed for Doby and Dale Mitchell, both of whom requested instruction. Manager Lou Boudreau, however, had warned them to wait a few days before sliding.

Hank Edwards, who hopes to land the right field post, was wearing a first baseman's glove yesterday. Boudreau has decided that both Edwards and Clark, another candidate for the outfield, should be ready to fill in at first in the event Mickey Vernon is injured.

Clark played one game at first last year and was given a trial at the position by the New York Yankees in 1947. He is a right-hander, however, and Boudreau prefers a portsider, as in the case of Edwards, for the job.

Edwards has never played first, but he handled ground balls for several hours yesterday and, according to Boudreau, did well.

Indian President Bill Veeck was expected to confer with Russ Christopher and holdouts Bob Lemon and Johnny Berardino in Los Angeles today. Christopher, the lanky pitcher who has been suffering from heart trouble for several years, recently said he was retiring from baseball.

Veeck probably will come here tomorrow for talks with two other holdouts, Joe Gordon and Gene Bearden.

Jesus Teaches the People — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 5-7.

Jesus, seeing the multitudes that followed Him, went up into a mountain, gathered His disciples around Him, and taught them.

"Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons of God."

When thou does thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and streets.

When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, shut the door and pray to thy Father in secret.

MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 4:23
